

documents that Lorillard has determined should remain in the Depository's SDR on the grounds of privilege, trade secret, formula, or confidentiality,² Lorillard has prepared a Log attached hereto as Exhibit A, identifying, to the extent available, the document number, author(s), addressee(s), copyee(s), document date, document type, the reason for sealing the document, and whether the procedures contained in Judge Lawrence Cohen's January 12, 1999 Order were followed.

In order to address all the Log fields required by Order #30 Remand, including the reason why a document was moved into the SDR and whether Lorillard complied with the procedures in Judge Lawrence Cohen's January 12, 1999 order, Lorillard conducted a diligent, good faith review of historical case-related and administrative records corresponding to each of the 641 documents listed on the attached Log. This effort included locating and reviewing records, which in many instances were more than a decade old. These efforts were complicated by the fact that the law firms that served as Lorillard's Minnesota local counsel, whose responsibilities included facilitating Lorillard's compliance with Court Orders in the Minnesota Attorney General action and communicating with the Minnesota Depository administrators during the relevant time period encompassed by Order #30 Remand, no longer exist. Specifically, Lorillard's Minnesota local counsel in the Minnesota Attorney General litigation, Doherty Rumble & Butler ("Doherty Rumble"), ceased operating in approximately June 1999, and Doherty Rumble's successor as Lorillard's Minnesota local counsel, Rider Bennett Egan & Arundel ("Rider Bennett"), ceased operating in approximately June 2007. Lorillard's due diligence efforts to comply with Order # 30 Remand included efforts to interview former Doherty Rumble and Rider Bennett employees involved with facilitating Lorillard's compliance with Court Orders in the Minnesota Attorney General action and communicating with the administrators of the Minnesota Depository on Lorillard's behalf.

Nearly all the documents identified on the Depository List relate to claw-backs of documents inadvertently produced in smoking and health litigation a decade or more ago. Despite the passage of time, Lorillard has been able to locate written confirmation for 571 of the 641 documents that the appropriate procedures were followed with respect to the underlying litigation that caused the document to be produced to the Depository. For example, Lorillard located documentation showing that pursuant to Court order in this action, it notified counsel for the Department of Justice that certain documents had been inadvertently produced.

For 55 documents (which are denoted with an "*" in the ninth column of the Log), based on its investigation described above, Lorillard has been unable to locate written confirmation of compliance with the claw-back procedure in the underlying case prior to the sealing of the document in the SDR. However, based on its investigation and the pattern of compliance that emerged, Lorillard believes that it complied with the claw back procedures in the underlying litigation, but due to the passage of time and the inherent difficulty in locating such highly specific back-up materials, it has simply been unable to locate the back-up documentation. Lorillard has found no indication that claw back procedures were not to be followed. Lorillard continues to review its records related to the Log and will supplement this submission, as appropriate.

For another 8 documents (which are denoted with an "" in the ninth column of the Log), Lorillard's investigation reflects that the documents were never included in any document production in a smoking and health litigation; thus there was no claw-back procedure in an underlying case for which compliance could be confirmed for the purpose of this filing. It appears that these documents were simply mistakenly included in a box shipped to the Depository.

Additionally, with respect to this Court's requirement to identify whether "removal procedures" in Judge Cohen's Order were followed regarding the documents listed on the Log, based on the information available to Lorillard, it appears that these documents were sealed in the SDR within the Depository as opposed to being removed from the Depository. Thus, the requirement to give "notice of any removal of documents" from the Minnesota Depository to the Ramsey County District Court Administrator would not apply. Nonetheless, Lorillard did attempt to determine if the Ramsey County District Court was contemporaneously notified regarding the sealing of these documents in the SDR, but for the reasons mentioned above regarding the dissolution of the two law firms that served as Lorillard's local counsel in Minnesota, Lorillard has been unable to determine whether any notification occurred.
